Letter from the President

Well, 2008 is finally over. I don't know about you, but I won't miss it. Hope springs eternal as we start a new year and the Chamber looks forward to providing you with many opportunities to meet new people and grow your business connections in the community. The board will be meeting on February 3rd to organize committees and prepare for a great year ahead. The Chamber website is up and running and I encourage you to go there and provide us with your thoughts and insights. We have only just begun, but one of my goals for 2009 is to start branding our website as "The place to go for Arlington and Smokey Point information". The objective is to support your businesses by directing traffic looking for Arlington and/or Smokey Point information to a site that not only can help them but showcases your business advertising as well. With the 2010 Olympics just around the corner, it's a perfect time to get your business advertisement in the best place possible that is also the most affordable; your Chamber Directory and website.

I hope to see you at the upcoming Chamber luncheon at noon on February 10 at the Medallion Hotel. Also, be sure to get your tickets to our Annual Chamber Banquet and Auction, Saturday February 28.

See the website for more information

KRISTIANSSEN DELIVERS STATE OF THE STATE REPUBLICAN RESPONSE

Snohomish lawmaker calls for setting budget priorities, resisting tax increases, allowing free-market solutions to work

Calling upon the Legislature and the governor to make better, responsible budget decisions, Rep. Dan Kristiansen responded today to Gov. Christine Gregoire's State of the State address by saying that expanding state government will not solve Washington's economic woes. Kristiansen, who serves as chairman of the House Republican Caucus, delivered the Republican response following the governor's address this afternoon. The Snohomish lawmaker said that although the national economy contributed to Washington's projected $7 billion budget deficit, the severity of the crisis is largely due to mistakes made by the Legislature. "On the governor's watch, the Democrat majority in the Legislature increased spending by thirty-three percent over the last four years. We went from a two billion dollar surplus to a nearly seven billion dollar deficit in the last two years. That's a nine billion dollar swing in the budget," said Kristiansen. "This is poor stewardship of the tax dollars you pay." Kristiansen noted that revenues are expected to increase in the coming biennium by 5 percent, yet the projected budget would still outspend that anticipated increase. "It took Washington 114 years to grow state spending to twenty-five billion dollars. But it only took four years to increase spending by more than eight billion dollars," he added. "The Legislature is spending at a rate faster than the increased revenue. That level of spending is unsustainable." Kristiansen said the Legislature must avoid repeating these mistakes if it is serious about helping Washington's economy. One important component of economic recovery, he said, is to stand firm against tax or fee increases in the budget that emerges from the Legislature. "It's time to eliminate the option of raising taxes -- take it entirely off the table," Kristiansen noted. "Taxpayers and employers did not create this crisis and they should not be expected to bail out state government." Kristiansen added that any economic stimulus packages to pass from the Legislature should emphasize job growth in the private sector -- not more tax dollars being poured into expansion of state government. "Republicans agree that we need to stimulate the economy in ways that will help businesses in the private sector retain and create new jobs. We cannot dig our way out of a budget deficit by spending tax dollars to increase government jobs. That's part of what contributed to this deficit in the first place," said Kristiansen. The 39th District representative said the budget crisis can be solved by forcing the state to live within its means -- now and in the future. "Answers to our current economic system should not involve bail outs," he said. "It comes down to setting priorities, cutting non-essential services to reduce spending, and allowing the free-market system that our nation was founded upon to work and flourish." Kristiansen said he's optimistic about the future of the state and added that Republicans are ready to reach out with solutions. He called on the Legislature to "come together united toward the needs of the people." But he also said it will be important for citizens to hold lawmakers accountable for the budget decisions made during the legislative session. "Answers to our economic situation are easy, but it's the will to do what is right that seems so hard to find," said Kristiansen. "So I'm asking citizens to pay close attention to the work of the Legislature, the governor and her administration as we address the budget challenges and critical issues over the next four months and beyond. Become involved and hold us, your legislators, accountable. "We must soberly face the consequences of bad decisions made by state government. As legislators, we must remember that all the policy decisions we make in Olympia are paid for with revenues generated from a sound economy. Our commitment as Republicans is to preserve a free society, hold up the principles of free-market solutions, not solutions that come from government bureaucracies, and allow our capitalistic economic system to correct itself," concluded Kristiansen.

NORMA SMITH INTRODUCES HOUSE BILL

Greetings!

Recently I introduced a piece of legislation, House Bill 1617, that seeks to reduce the regulatory burden for Washington businesses. This bill will serve as an important step in reducing at least some of the unnecessary burdens placed on our business owners and farmers, and I sincerely hope you will support me in my efforts. Should any of you wish to come and testify, please contact my office at your earliest convenience. The bill is up for a public hearing on January 30th at 1:30 PM in the House State Government & Tribal Affairs Committee. I wanted to make sure you all had a chance to see the press release which can be viewed at <http://www.housepublicans.wa.gov/Smith/newsroom/090126.htm>. As always, feel free to contact my office with any questions you may have.

NEW MEMBERS SPOTLIGHT

Margo's Safety 1 Driving

Margo Peterson

Phone : 360-659-1311

Email: margo@safety1.comcastbiz.net

<http://www.safety1driving.com>

I have been doing driver's ed for about thirteen years, and started Margo's Safety 1 Driving Inc. here in Smokey Point six and a half years ago. I love to drive, and I enjoy teaching both teens and adults. It is very satisfying watching them progress from confusion to competence behind the wheel.

Our goal is to provide the best quality for an affordable price. We understand that while teens need driver's ed, it can be a financial stretch for families, especially when there is more than one child involved. We try to make our classes fun as well as informative. Our instructors are experienced, fully licensed, and very patient.

My school is so time intensive, it's hard to get to Chamber meetings but I feel it is an important way to make a connection to the business community. When I have time, I like to draw and paint, and do freelance writing. I have written a lot of the materials for our course, and you can see some of my paintings hanging in our office.

We offer 5 week teen classes, as well as adult lessons and driver improvement. From teens to seniors--anyone can come to us for help with driving!

SUPPORT CHAMBER MEMBERS BY

MEET YOUR PRESIDENT PAUL GRAVES

I was born in Arlington in 1965 at Cascade Valley Hospital. I was raised outside of town above the North Fork of the Stilliguamish River. I graduated from AHS in 1983. I then attended Western Washington University where I earned a BA in Accounting in 1988.

My career started in Seattle, where I worked as an auditor for a CPA firm. I left the firm and worked as an accountant for several companies before realizing I really wanted to do something else.

I began working in the mortgage industry in 1997. It was, for me, the perfect blend of dealing with clients one-on-one and with finance. I enjoy my work most when I am able to contribute to a meaningful improvement in someone's personal finances.

I live in downtown Arlington on French Ave with my wife of twenty years, Corinn, and our three daughters, Lindsay (18, at WSU), Laurel (16) and Leslee (14). I play euphonium (Google it if you don't know what it is) in the North Cascade Concert Band, sing in the Arlington Free Methodist Church Choir, play tennis at least twice a week and in my spare time (what a joke) work on our old 1912 house.

I was encouraged over the years to volunteer my time in the Arlington community by many people. The most encouragement came from George Boulton and his son David. Both of whom I have know my whole life. They have been my example for contributing to and volunteering in the town of Arlington. I appreciate their friendship and counsel which guides me to this day.

I joined the board a year ago as Vice President. It was a year for me to learn the inner workings of the Chamber and get to know the rest of the Board. As a former auditor, I enjoy being thrust into a new environment where I need to figure things out quickly. This as also caused me to spend a fair amount of time focusing on the Chamber's internal controls and infrastructure.

I have two main goals for the 2009 Chamber. The first is to unite Arlington/Smokey Point businesses like never before. In this economically uncertain time, it is critical that we support our local businesses and know each other. Membership in the Chamber is the first step to making this happen. We are the strongest when we work together.

My second goal is to introduce the membership to our new website and to promote it as "The place to go for Arlington and Smokey Point information". With the branding of this website, we will expand the exposure of member businesses. I see no limit to the benefits we could gain from this website.

It is a pleasure to be serving as your Chamber President for 2009. Please contact me any time with input as to how I can serve you better.

Sincerely,
Paul Graves
